

CISO as a Service

Proposition Overview

Effective cyber security practices are no longer a bolt-on or an afterthought, but an imperative

New legislation, intensive audits, a rapidly evolving threat and limited budgets, all create a troubling landscape of amplified risk. This, coupled with a rise in demand for digital services, means that cyber security is no longer just a concern for the IT department, but can pose a serious threat to a company's performance and brand reputation. Information security is now a Board priority.

Our CISO as a Service offers flexible and competent solution for organisations that need to bolster their skillset and enhance their existing team.

At a glance

- ✓ We'll work with you to develop cybersecurity strategies and target operating models that align with your organisations desired outcomes.
- ✓ We'll provide security guidance to your management teams, driving your organisation's information security programme in an effective and efficient way.
- ✓ With new partnership and regional working forming in the NHS we can help you understand the cyber maturity and risks not only at your own Trust, but across your region.

Problem solved

Bridging strategy and technical skills, the role of the CISO is more critical and demanding than ever, and effective leaders are in high demand. Many organisations don't have the resources to employ a full-time CISO, and often don't know exactly how to set out a security strategy that enables organisational goals. We can help.

Benefits

Drives a long-term cyber security roadmap that will increase compliance and reduce risk.

Ensures security is integrated effectively, providing maximum ROI from your chosen toolsets.

Is cost-effective compared to the recruitment, training and on-going cost of a full time appointment.